

THINGS THAT CAN HELP

Talk about the violence you experienced with a professional that is non judgmental and who is positive and understanding.

It's very natural to want to talk to someone when you're feeling down or a crisis has occurred. There are professionals who are trained to help you deal with stress and life changes. These professionals are experienced in working with people who have survived trauma and violence, and can assist you in recovering and healing.

BUILD RESOURCES

This includes staying connected to positive family members, friends, teachers, coaches, siblings, faith based resources, and other supportive community members.

FAMILY MEMBERS OF VICTIMS OF VIOLENCE

TAKE CARE OF YOURSELVES — eat, drink plenty of fluids and try to get some rest.

REMAIN CALM — in front of your loved one; remember he or she may be affected by your reactions.

LISTEN — let your loved one vent, remember you don't have to have answers for everything. Silence is okay.

VALIDATE — the event and your loved one's feelings about it.

“Nonviolence means avoiding not only external physical violence but also internal violence of the spirit.”

You and/or your family members are victims of violence no matter how this injury happened to you. The road to healing can be challenging. Some of the things you and/or your family members might need to know are:

COMMON FEELINGS AND ACTIONS AFTER TRAUMA:

- Anger
- Nightmares
- Change in eating and sleeping patterns
- Wanting to hurt the person who hurt you
- Physical signs of stress: headache/stomachache, difficulty concentrating
- Being shocked or afraid
- Feeling guilty because you could not prevent the violent act
- Feeling embarrassed to tell your friends or family
- Loss of control or powerlessness
- Isolating yourself from friends or shutting down
- Feelings of hopelessness and helplessness
- Mood Swings, Depression and/or Anxiety

HOW DOES VIAP WORK?

VIAP assigns you a Violence Intervention Advocate who can be with you during your journey to recovery. Your advocate can:

- Be a liaison between you/your family and BMC staff to ensure your medical needs are met.
- Visit you daily and be someone to talk with who understands your experience.
- Help you make changes in desired areas of your life.
- Create safety plan as you return to your community so you can properly recover.
- Help secure transportation and/or go with you to appointments.
- VIAP assigns a VIAP Family Support Advocate for any identified family member.

ALL VIAP services are free & confidential
